RE: MUR 7385
Campaign signs without the "paid for by" language
Congressional election in Pennsylvania's new district 01

To the Office of Complaints Examination and Legal Administration:

Thank you for your correspondence dated May 17, 2018 confirming receipt of my complaint. I do have some additional information that may be of use in your investigation into the signs that appeared across Bucks County about Scott Wallace that have no "paid for by" language. While most if not all of the signs have disappeared from the streets of our district in the wake of the primary election, there is reason to believe that they will influence the general election and may make a reappearance later in the campaign season.

The losing candidate from the Republican side of the primary campaign, Dean Malik, has announced his intention to create a political action committee. Please find attached an article from the Levittown Now, a local paper, on the creation of "bucksPAC," Dean Malik's new organization. The contact information for this new PAC, as noted on their Facebook page is:

bucksPAC
449 Ravine Street
Langhorne, PA 19047
phone – 267.738.0562
Website – bucksPAC.org (however this simply directs to a GoDaddy domain holder)

I have also included a printout from the "bucksPAC" facebook page. The very first meme that the group posted after the creation of their Facebook presence was an image of one of the campaign signs that are the subject of this investigation.

Additionally, Mr. Malik recently appeared on an area talk radio show, The Tom Giordano Program on 1210 AM. A link to an audio recording of his segment can be found here:

<https://1210wpht.radio.com/media/audio-channel/dean-malik-dom-gioradano-program-0>

During that audio interview, Mr. Malik cites the exact talking points that are promoted on the signs under investigation. At the 4:07 mark of the recording, Mr. Malik echoes the claim that the candidate gave $25,000 to the county Democratic party to acquire the nomination.

I have also included the printout of another Facebook thread that has information and images about these signs continuing to be posted in the days immediately before the Pennsylvania primary. Over 30 of them were pulled on or immediately before May 12, 2018 from locations throughout central Bucks County.

If you have any questions, or if I can clarify or provide additional information, I can be reached by phone at _____ and by email at _____

I declare that the above information is true and complete to the best of my knowledge. I know that if I knowingly give false information I am liable for prosecution.

The bucksPAC will focus on defeating Democratic candidate Scott Wallace, Malik announced last Thursday on The Dom Giordano Program on 1210 WPHT.

Malik, who lost in last week's Republican primary to incumbent Congressman Brian Fitzpatrick, said the PAC is still in the development process. However, a Facebook page for the group did spring up.

Malik said Wallace, a millionaire philanthropist, is "unrelatable" to many First Congressional District voters and doesn't connect with the "hard working people of Levittown and Bucks County." He added that he thinks his PAC can focus on keeping the First Congressional District in Republican control.

The Doylestown attorney said he thinks the GOP can win the November election by talking to voters and putting boots on the ground.

During his interview, Malik, a candidate who supported President Donald Trump's agenda, did not endorse more moderate Fitzpatrick but said he plans to meet with him.

Wallace's campaign said they plan to keep moving forward and let voters know about their candidate.

Malik earned just over 30 percent of the Republican votes during the primary last week.

Remind me - can we pull the Silver Spoon signs when we see them if they're not on someone's property? They're on a few corners in Wash Crossing.

Yes ma'am! As long as they're not on private property. I snagged 3 yesterday.

Can you just keep track of how many you pulled? Or take a picture of them before you pull them? the FEC has still not gotten back to me on the complaint I filed (they still have a few more days to do so under their rules) but we may need to give them a count of how many we have pulled, if they don't find any evidence of them out in the public.
